The Boat is Leaving - Last Call

via Ann McGill 5/20/05

This message is not meant for everyone.
If you're its target, let us hope you recognize yourself
... if not now, when the time comes.

Our last "Message from the Universe" spoke of "Windows of Opportunity" and how they last only so long.

See www.AnnMcGill.com/messagesFromUniverse.php

At some point the boat does leave and the question becomes, are we aboard or not? This follow up message is intended as a reminder for those who did not respond as fully and forcefully as their situations demand.

At some point we reach a juncture in the road where it diverges into the path not taken and the choice we made. Sometimes we don't consciously grab the reins, but allow outside forces or inner demons to make the selection for us. We could end up delighted, but we're more likely to be horrified, saddened, deeply regret the choice not taken. We could end up paying a high price for our lack of commitment and follow through, to do what we KNOW is in our best interests.

Is your health or happiness demanding a major change of some sort that you've been fearing - avoiding? If you don't take action now, will there likely be ramifications - consequences you'll regret?

Fifty years of smoking, the last 2 trying hard to quit, my lungs had begun telling me quite clearly, NOW is the time. Beyond this point there shall be less and less ability for near-total recovery - at a rapidly increasing rate.

It will help considerably to first make yourself aware of consequences you can expect. Ask yourself, "What would my life be like if I miss the boat?" Ask yourself, "Is this what I really want? Will it lead to peace, make me happy?" Allow yourself to chew on such questions until clarity comes.

Where this "Now or Never" message Really GRABBED my attention had to do with noting that all my spiritual friends were getting way ahead of me when it came to deepening into peace, connecting with true self, permanently letting go of pain and suffering. Clearly I needed to engage in a good dose of Truth telling.

Life is not meant to be lived alone.
The power of prayer is not to be underestimated.
If you're having difficulty implementing what you intend, pray ... not for resolution, not that Holy Spirit solve the problem for you ... but for greater desire and willingness to do whatever it takes to make a wise choice and stick to it.

At last I recognized I'd been trying to make these changes by myself.
Evidence of impossibility was quite evident. Immediately my prayers were answered ... first by thoughts that I doubted were from Spirit. So I said I wouldn't listen, not until I first got very quiet and turned inwards – where all answers reside. That's when guidance and solutions evolved that little ole me certainly didn't figure out all on her own.

If your boat is leaving and you decide to leap, you'll be glad you did.
Guaranteed. Decisions to take loving good care of ourselves and be fully responsible automatically trigger the kinds of shifts in consciousness that generate welcome results, which then ripple themselves into all areas of our lives.

Once I was 100% willing to let life unfold as Spirit would lead, not according to intellectual – analytical thought, miraculous shifts occurred, mostly with supreme ease. The suffering stopped.
Emotions were freed up, erroneous beliefs released, my heart expanded, even the desire to smoke disappeared.

Bon Voyage! Have a great trip.
May your journey of unfoldment bring joy and relief.

n/ Joy ... b/ Peace ... w/ Love ...
